Fees and Charges for Aged Care

Fees and Charges for aged care are dependent on the financial situation of the resident. You can choose to pay your aged care fees by a:

- lump-sum payment called a 'Refundable Accommodation Deposit' or RAD
- rental-type payment called a 'Daily Accommodation Payment' or DAP
- combination of a RAD and DAP

You have 28 days from the day you entered care to decide on your payment preference. You will be required to pay the accommodation payment until you decide.

There are three fees that you may be asked to pay at MiCare

Accommodation payment

Dependent on the findings of the Centrelink Income and Asset will depend on which accommodation payment you will eligible to pay.

Option 1.	RAD	This is a lump-sum payment called Refundable Accommodation Deposit (RAD). A RAD is an interest-free loan to an aged care home. The balance of the deposit is refunded when you leave the home less any amount you've agreed to have deducted. The Australian Government guarantees the repayment of your lump sum if MiCare becomes bankrupt or insolvent. This means you can be sure that the RAD balance will be refunded to you or your estate.
Option 2	DAP	This is a periodic payment called Daily Accommodation Payment (DAP). The DAP is the interest payable on any unpaid RAD and will be charged a month in advance. The DAP is not refundable except for any advanced payments if you leave MiCare. The DAP is calculated using the Maximum Permissible Interest Rate which is set by the Australian Government
Option 3	RAD/DAP	This option is a combination of a lump-sum payment and periodic payment.
Option 4	Drawing down the RAD	If you choose a combination method, there is the option to have your DAP taken out of your RAD. This means that the total amount in your RAD will be reduced over time as your DAP, which is calculated on the unpaid portion of the RAD, increases.
	RAC	This is a Refundable Accommodation Contribution (RAC) which applies if you are Partially Supported. A reduced room cost for those with limited assets and or income. The RAC is like a RAD in-that the balance is refunded when you leave the home less any amount you've agreed to have deducted.
	DAC	This is a periodic payment called Daily Accommodation Contribution (DAC), which applies if you are Partially Supported. The DAC is the interest payable on any unpaid RAC. It works on the same principle as a DAP.
	Fully Supported	This is when you're assessed as financially disadvantaged and the government will fund the majority of your care fees.

Basic Daily Care Fee

	Basic Daily Fee	To cover living costs such as meals, electricity and laundry. (85% of a single pension)
